DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-4, 6-8, 11-13, 15-21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, line 4, the new language therein is not understood. Firstly, it is not understood whether the “voltage pull-up device” is “located intermediate” to the “band- gap reference” or the “buffer circuit” or both. Further, there is no support for this new language. As is well known, a schematic discloses connection of elements, not location of elements. As seen, the schematic of Figs. 2 and 3 show the connection of the circuit elements, not locations thereof.

Examiner has fully considered Applicant’s remarks for the above rejection and has not found them to be persuasive. While the rejection included a typographical error, this was not the emphasis of the rejection. The new language is clearly attempting to recite location of the elements, rather than circuit connection (due to the word “located”). As stated above, a schematic is intended to show connection of elements, not location. Examiner notes that if this language is attempting to recite circuit connections, then this language is clearly redundant. This is due to the fact that “intermediate” and “between” have effectively the same meaning.

Claims 2-4, 6-8, 11-13 and 15 are rejected for the reasons discussed above with claim 1.

Claims 15-21 and 23 are rejected for similar reasons as claims 1-4, 6-8, 11-13 and 15.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 6-8, 11-13, 15-21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kadanka et al. (USPN 5,621,308) in view of newly cited art to Mietus (USPN 5,666,046). Kadanka et al. disclose, in Fig. 2, a circuit comprising: “a band-gap reference unit (73, less 54)”; “a buffer circuit (54)”; and “a voltage pull-up device (70)”, wherein the “voltage pull-up device” has a “transistors (48)”. Kadanka et al. does not expressly disclose that transistor 46 has a “less than 1.0 V_{BE} ”. However, it is notoriously well known, as expressly taught by Mietus (e.g., see Col. 1, lines 56-67), to use a voltage of 0.7 volts for the expect advantage of using a lower supply voltage (e.g., 0.8 volts). Therefore, it would have been obvious for one skilled in the art to manufacture transistor 48 with “less than 1.0 V_{BE} ” for the expected advantage allowing for a lower supply voltage.

Examiner has fully considered Applicant’s remarks for the above rejection and has not found them to be persuasive. As provided for the record previously, the claim clearly meets the claim recitation. Element 73 clearly operates as a “band-gap reference unit”, element 54 is clearly a “buffer” and element 70 is clearly a “voltage pull-up device”. Further, with respect to Applicant’s contention concerning the terms “intermediate” and “between”. Clearly, element 70 has one terminal connected to the emitter of 52 of the “band-gap reference unit” and another terminal connected to the collector of the “buffer”. This clearly would be considered “intermediate” or “between”.

With respect to Applicant’s arguments concerning motivation, Applicant is applying improper requirement for a rejection under 35 U.S.C. § 103. Clearly, of the secondary is not required to teach use of a “pull-up device”. The secondary reference is used to teach setting of a threshold voltage is a generic transistor device, not a “pull-up device”, per se. This is deemed to be more than sufficient suggestion in the reference.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
